FLOOD WILL TRIAL MAY BE GIVEN TO JURY TODAY

ATTORNEYS IN FLOOD WILL TRIAL COMPLETE OFFERING EVIDENCE

Eugene Aureguy Occupies Witness Stand
To Complete Rebuttal of Evidence Offered by Roche Witnesses

What proved to be one of the tense days of the Flood will contest drew to a close today with attorneys for Mrs. Gavin presenting their last important witnesses in rebuttal of the evidence given by witnesses for the Flood attorneys. The most important of these was Eugene Aureguy, whose testimony under cross examination was not too satisfactory to Theodore Roche, the attorney for Mrs. Flood, and other heirs under the Flood will.

Roche with a fierce cross examination attempted to trap Aureguy into an admission that he had prompted Mrs. Willette to tell the story about James Flood being the father of her child. Aureguy, however, failed to fall into the many traps set for him by the other attorney.

The sharp conflict between the two brilliant attorneys furnished one of the most spirited scenes of the trial. One of the most dramatic scenes was when Roche asked:

"Isn't it true, Mr. Aureguy that Mr. Charles McEnerney was president of your estate research corporation, and if that is true, will you tell this jury where Charles McEnerney is?"

Roche's reference was to Attorney Charles McEnerney, now serving seven years in prison for maladministration of the $100,000 estate of John Quinn, Nevada pioneer.

John J. Taaffe, of counsel for Mrs. Gavin leaped to his feet to oppose the question.

Aureguy, however, beat him to it. "I'll answer that question, Mr. Taaffe, please," Aureguy said very quietly, but loud enough for everybody to hear. "I'll be glad to answer it."

Then pointing to Garrett McEnerney, veteran chief counsel for the Flood family, Aureguy said:

"Mr. Charles McEnerney, a cousin of Mr. Garrett McEnerney, is in Folsom prison!"

This brought Garrett McEnerney angrily to his feet.

"He is no cousin of mine," McEnerney thundered.

Aureguy, over the uproar that by now filled the packed courtroom, shot back this retort:

"He claims such relationship, Mr. McEnerney."

The bedlam was such that Judge Buck had to halt proceedings for a few minutes to pound for order.

Taaffe demanded that Judge Buck assign Roche's question as misconduct and that the jury be instructed to disregard it. The judge so ordered.

Many of the questions asked by Roche, Aureguy refused to answer on the grounds that they had nothing to do with the case. At each refusal of the witness, Roche appealed to Judge Buck, and in almost every instance Aureguy's stand was upheld by the judge.

While Aureguy is considered the last of the more important witnesses, it is understood that six or seven more may be called to corroborate evidence already given or to dispute that put on by the other side. It is generally conceded that the attorneys are hurrying the case along so that all evidence may be placed before the jury today and the case placed with the jury on Monday.

I. C. Drathman, Redwood City building inspector, was called to the stand yesterday. Drathman knew James Cannon many years ago in San Francisco and was at one time in partnership with him in an electrical business there.

Drathman was asked to describe Cannon, property man at the Grove Street Theatre, who is now claimed by Mrs. Willette as the father of her child. Drathman's description of Cannon was very different from that of Mrs. Willette, and was different also from that of an election register of that time which had been produced by the defense attorneys.

George Sterling, who had run a saloon near the Grove Street Theatre in the 90's was called and testified that he also was well acquainted with Cannon. His description of the man corresponded with that of Drathman. Both witnesses recog-

Verdict Advises Driver's Arrest On Manslaughter

Coroners Jury Hears Evidence In Accident Fatal to Filipinos

Thomas Fernandez, 26, a Filipino, will be charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Marcelino Sadornas and Segundo Acantillo, also Filipino, who were killed in an automobile accident in San Mateo on July 26.

An inquest into the death of the two men was held at the parlors of the Snider undertaking company in San Mateo Tuesday afternoon. After hearing the evidence in the case the jury brought in a verdict that both men came to their death through fracture of the skull, and recommended that the driver of the car, Fernandez, be held for manslaughter.

The two Filipinos were killed and two others injured when a car in which they were riding crashed into a tree near the southern limits of San Mateo. The Filipinos are said to have turned out to pass a truck while traveling at a speed of about 40 miles per hour, in drawing back to the right-hand side of the road, the driver evidently cramped his wheels, for the car skidded and crashed into a tree beside the highway. The impact of the car against the tree caused the machine to rebound into the highway and strike the truck.

Electric Line To Ask Bridge Line Franchise

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Facilities for electric line transportation to San Francisco over the $72,000,000 San Francisco bay bridge will likely be provided, it was disclosed here today in plans of C. H. Purcell, state highway engineer.

Whether an all-rail entrance to the bay city through transcontinental railroads will also be provided depends upon investigations now being made by officials of the Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and other lines, Purcell said.

Approval of the franchises would hinge upon the ability of the companies to pay their share of the cost of the transbay bridge, it was indicated. Use of the structure by the steam railroads for either freight or passenger traffic was declared improbable.

Five Released in Connection with Starting Fires

Forest Fires Now Controlled
In All Sections of San Mateo County

Five men booked at the county jail for questioning in regard to an alleged attempt to start another fire in the Pescadero creek section of this county, were released when no evidence could be found against them.

The five were booked as E. Griffith, James Leavy, James Reed, Pat Hogan and C. A. Hummel, all were laborers. The five men were part of the crew which had been drafted by Fire Warden Bert Werder to fight the fire which has been periling some of the county's finest stands of timber for several days.

The main fire had been extinguished. Werder left 20 men to guard the smoldering embers, and sent the rest of the men out. Five who are said to have given the fire warden trouble the whole time, refusing to work and in other ways hampering the work of the others, were in one truck.

When a new fire was found to have started in the brush beside the road just after this truck had passed, it was believed that one of the five had intentionally thrown a burning match from the truck.

A call was sent to the sheriff's office and the truck was met by Deputy Sheriffs Lawrence Nieri and Leland Quinlan.

The fire in the Waterman Gap district is reported to be definitely out. Other smaller blazes were reported from the vicinity of the Shrine park and near La Honda, but these also are said to be under control.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6 (UP)—Resorts, ranches and large stands of trees were saved by fire fighters in California today.

Most of the fires in the latest widespread outbreak were reported under control tonight.

Alder Springs, summer resort on the Aubrey-Huntington Lake Road in the Sierra Nevada mountains back of Fresno, was threatened for several hours and many persons on vacation trips fled from the flames.

A grove of tall redwood trees near the Santa Cruz-San Mateo county line was saved by 200 men.

Fire that destroyed 6000 acres of brush in the Finesgold Creek in Madera county a blaze that swept over 1500 acres of brush and 300 acres of trees in the vicinity of Northfork, Fresno county, and the Alder Creek conflagration were reported under control.

Another serious fire burned to the Federal Forest Reserve near Helena, Trinity county.

DRUNK CHARGE COSTS MAN A FINE OF $25

William Black arrested by Police Sergeant Stanley Wood, was fined $25, when he appeared in the court of Justice of the Peace Edward I. McAuliffe Wednesday morning.

Black was said to have been driving a car before he was arrested, but as he was not operating the machine at the time of his arrest a charge of drunken driving was not placed against him.

PLANE OF ROUND-WORLD FLYERS HELD FOR DEBT

Sheriff McGrath Ordered To Seize Plane
And Sell At Auction; Owners May
Try Seattle Flight

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., who attempted to better the time of eight and one-half days made by Post and Gatty for a round-the-world flight, have trouble awaiting them when they return to this county. Sheriff McGrath of this county has received an order from the superior court of Alameda county for the seizure of an airplane at the Curtiss-Wright field at San Mateo, to satisfy a bill of $1058. In addition to this sum the airport holds a claim of $140 for storage of the plane.

The plaintiff in the Alameda county action is Mrs. Wemmer, who has obtained a judgment against the two men and against Jerry Smith, third owner of the plane.

The machine will be sold at auction on Tuesday by Sheriff McGrath to satisfy the judgment.

SEATTLE Aug. 6 (UP)—A telegram received here by W. W. Connor, national aeronautical governor for Washington, indicated today that Clyde E. Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., American aviators who left New York more than a week ago in an attempt to better the round-the-world record set by Post and Gatty, might attempt a Tokio-Seattle non-stop flight.

The fliers were unsuccessful in the attempt to better the Post-Gatty record.

The telegram received here was signed by R. D. Heebner, who termed himself "manager of the Herndon-Pangborn flight," and requested details concerning prize money offered to fliers making a non-stop trans-Pacific flight between the two cities.

A Japanese newspaper has offered $25,000 for the flight, and approximately $28,000 has been raised by aviation enthusiasts here for a non-stop non-refueling flight between Seattle and Tokio.

SEATTLE, Aug. 6 (UP)—Frank Dorbandt, Alaska pilot, believes that the big monoplane piloted by Clyde Pangborn could make the trans-Pacific non-stop flight between Tokio and Seattle—if any airplanes and pilot can make such a flight.

Dorbandt and Pangborn have flown together considerably, and the Alaska pilot has unlimited confidence in Pangborn's ability and the plane he and Hugh Herndon, Jr., used in their attempt to better the Post-Gatty around-the-world flight record.

"I believe he has the one ship that is capable of making such a flight," Dorbandt said here today. "With any kind of help from tail winds and weather he should get here. He's a good pilot."

San Mateo Man Killed As Car Goes Over Bank

Broken Steering Gear Said To Have Caused Car To Leave Road

When his car plunged over a thousand-foot embankment, Monday night on the Los Gatos highway, Lee Roy Pollard, 41, San Mateo mechanic, received injuries from which he died Tuesday at a San Jose hospital.

Pollard had been working at a garage in Boulder Creek, and was returning home at the time when the accident happened. He was about a mile west of Los Gatos when the steering gear of his car broke and the car shot over the bank.

It is said to have turned over a dozen times during its flight down the hill, and to have crumpled to a mass of wreckage at the bottom. Pollard was pinned under the car for almost an hour before he could be extricated.

In addition to his widow, Mrs. Emma Pollard, the dead man leaves two daughters, Dorothy and Helen Pollard, all residing at the family home in San Mateo. He was the brother of Arthur, Bud, Claude, Norman and Cleve Pollard and of Mrs. Pearl Worthman and Mrs. Howard Carey.

Funeral services are to be held in San Mateo this morning at the parlors of Geo. Snider & Co. Interment will be in St. John's cemetery at San Mateo.

Coastside Wife Seeks Divorce

After 31 years of married life the matrimonial boat of Frank A. Martin and his wife went on the rocks. Mrs. Martin this week filed a sensational suit for divorce from her husband in which he is charged with having relations with other women, with threatening her life and with calling her vile names.

In her suit Mrs. Martin names as co-respondent Eneo Carloni, who is said to live on a nearby ranch, and with whom Martin is alleged to have visited almost every night for the past two years.

Community property includes $2,000 in the Bank of Halfmoon Bay, valuable stock in the Transamerica Corporation and coast realty holdings consisting of a twenty-acre ranch on Pilarcitos creek and a score of lots at El Mar beach, the wife says. The couple married at Halfmoon Bay in December, 1899, and have three children, Mrs. Helen Hutchins, Mrs. Mabel Frey and Norman Martin. Mrs. Martin asks a division of community property in addition to a divorce.

Wife Asks Divorce On Cruelty Charges

Charging that her husband, Lionel J. Moreland, an employee of the United States veterans hospital at Menlo Park, on many occasions threatened to kill her and that he once threw coal oil in her face, Mrs. Clara Moreland has filed suit in the superior court here for divorce.

Mrs. Moreland asks the custody of their 14-month old son. The couple has been living in East Palo Alto.

Big Land Contract May Presage New Industrial Boom

San Mateo Group Gives Option
On Tideland Tract to Unknown Group

What is rumored to be the forerunner of a $100,000 industrial development for San Mateo was reported this week with the filing of an option for the purchase of 1378 acres of tideland at the foot of Peninsular avenue, with County Recorder T. C. Rice.

The option is for the purchase of property now held by a syndicate of San Mateo business men. It is held by the First National Bank of Oakland for 120 days, and it is said to be for clients of the bank who desire to complete arrangements for a big industrial development before taking over the property.

The present owners of the property claim no knowledge of the prospective purchasers, but claim that they have been assured that the bank's clients are not a railroad company.

Good Times Knocking At the Door

There has been so much bunk written and spoken about the present situation in the business world that it is refreshing to find one or two sane observers with their feet firmly on the ground of facts and common sense. Such an observer is William G. Shepherd, business expert of Collier's Weekly, who has just completed a cautious and considered survey of the economic world. His principal finding is that good times are knocking at the door, and that the main impetus for another era of prosperity will come from the United States.

"We always get some new and good ideas out of hard times," says Mr. Shepherd. "Such ideas were our postal savings banks, our improved banking regulations, our Federal Reserve System, the idea that workers are consumers and, as such, must not be crippled by wage reductions. We are now coming to the end of blind production, in the race of individual nations to corner the world's business for themselves. Maverick nations are out, and there will be something new in the world—law, order and certainty instead of world-wide business anarchy."

How can we explain one-sixteenth of the world's population doing one-half of the world's business? It's as easy as two times two. Here's a fact to put down in red letters: Americans are the machinery masters of the world. They are spending $23 per year for each man, woman and child in the country on machinery. That's the highest rate for machinery in the world.

The British, who export half of all they make, spend by this same yardstick only $10 a year, the Germans $9, British India 17 cents, China five cents.

"Americans talked about being big, two years ago," comments Mr. Shepherd. "We're still big. There's no reason for not talking about our bigness now. For in our bigness lies power that we were forgetting. Because this is our own country and we are so close to it, we did not realize, until recently, how completely the rest of the world has leaned on us, looking to us for guidance. Financially and economically, there are just two divisions in the world about equal in size—they are, Part One, the United States; Part Two, the rest of the world. Part One is a single unit that can act as a unit. Part Two consists of 101 other nations or geographical commercial units which play a part in world commerce. It cannot act as unit because it is divided. All of the world looks to the United States to make the first step back to prosperity."

Studying the Silver Problem

It is announced that the world silver problem is to be studied by a committee of experts appointed by the International Chamber of Commerce. These experts, representing the United States, Great Britain, China and perhaps other countries, will be selected on the basis of their knowledge both of silver and economics.

Whatever recommendations the committee makes will be received with interest throughout the world. Low silver prices—largely brought on by the fact that most nations have gone to the gold standard of coinage—play an important part in the business depression. The various governments interested in silver must agree on a policy for its stabilization, and such investigations as the one now projected should produce invaluable information with which to work.

Crooked Clients

Some lawyers today are no more than high-grade racketeers, Norman Thomas charges in the preface to a new book, "A Lawyer Tells the Truth," by Morris Ginet.

Dr. John Barker Waite of the University of Michigan Law School, discussing the criminal law recently, pointed out that "the most serious evils in the present system are not the fault of the law but the fault of the lawyers."

The list of similar accusations could be extended indefinitely. There is deep and widespread resentment in this country against the perversion of justice, particularly in the interest of men with money.

But, as Thomas pointed out, lawyers do not deserve all the blame for this condition.

"For every crooked lawyer, or sharp and cynical lawyer, there are clients who want that kind of a lawyer," says Thomas. "The legal racket is only one of many rackets which flourish in a society which has made profit god."

As long as any of us is willing to employ legal advice to tell us how we may evade an income tax law or an anti-trust law or a divorce or marriage law, we will have lawyers willing to sell the advice.—S. F. News.

Re-elect Senator Shortridge

By D. E. O'KEEFE

Senator Samuel M. Shortridge will be a candidate for re-election next year. He is certain of election, for he has kept faith with the people, has been loyal to the state and to the Republican party under whose banner he has twice marched to victory. From present indications it would appear the senator will be unopposed in the north, but he will have three opponents in the south at the election next year. This political alignment means, of course, his retention in office. The press of the state are already rallying to the support of Senator Shortridge. The following ably written editorial recently appeared in the St. Helena Star, and is only a sample of what the newspaper men throughout California are saying about the re-election of the senator:

The Star is in receipt of publicity from Los Angeles that conveys the word that Congressman Joe Crail has decided to become a candidate for United States Senator in opposition to Senator Samuel M. Shortridge. There are apparently well-founded rumors to the effect that there will be at least two other southern California men in the fight for the senatorship, while in the north the name of Friend W. Richardson keeps bobbing up as one after the toga now so worthily worn by Senator Shortridge.

We are not surprised that southern California is presenting one or more candidates for the senatorship. The north now has the governor and both senators and has had for a number of years. It is quite natural for the populous south to seek recognition, but why not wait until the time is ripe?

Senator Shortridge will complete his second term of six years, March 4, 1933. He has made an exceptionally fine public official. From the day he went to Washington to this very day, Senator Shortridge has been constantly on the job. He has known no north or south but has been senator for all the state safeguarding the interests of all his constituents which included the people of Los Angeles as well as of San Francisco. When the new tariff law was framed Senator Shortridge, as a member of the Senate Finance Committee watched every item closely as it affected California, both north and south. The citrus fruits of the south were as carefully protected as the prunes, eggs and other products of the north, and while Mr. Shortridge does not claim all the credit, he is certainly entitled to most of it. Senator Shortridge was close to the administrations of President Harding and Coolidge and he is equally close to that of President Hoover. His nearly twelve years at the capital has given the senator an influence this state cannot afford to lose. Why Joe Crail? He gives no reason in the publicity he has issued. He can easily be re-elected to the House of Representatives and should wait a more favorable time to push his personal ambitions. There will be another senatorial election in 1934 and some candidate from the south might well be a contender at that time, but for us, we are for Senator Shortridge in 1932, first, last and all the time, and against all contenders. He has made good. There is no reason for a change.

"Americans talked about being big, two years ago," comments Mr. Shepherd. "We're still big. There's no reason for not talking about our bigness now. For in our bigness lies power that we were forgetting. Because this is our own country and we are so close to it, we did not realize, until recently, how completely the rest of the world has leaned on us, looking to us for guidance. The Editorial Circuit Rider

(A symposium of Editorial Comment from California Newspapers)

By MELVIN LORD

Present conditions in California should offer ample proof of the vital need for a plan assuring the state an adequate supply of water.

In the opinion of California editors there is no section of the state in a position to ignore the necessity of looking into the future if that section is to enjoy a steady growth.

While individual suggestion may vary, it is the general consensus that a united state is highly desirable particularly from the standpoint of obtaining aid from the federal government.

"When communities abandon their hogwash characteristics and co-operate with the entire state in a water program that brings the benefits to all sections of the state," The Willows Journal points out, "there will be water enough. The next 20 years will bring us another 5,000,000 people. Our present unorganized plan of conservation will not meet the needs of that day."

In referring to the recent tour of the congressional committee seeking information concerning our water situation, The Bakersfield Californian declares "we have been very definitely told by these late visitors of ours, whose support we must have in the end, that what the situation demands primarily is a concerted movement in favor of a state water project."

In this same line The San Francisco Call-Bulletin reminded the visitors that a "great proportion of our agricultural land was desert once, and would return to the desert again if the water supply failed. We need federal credit behind our program and we need the full understanding of this serious-minded committee."

The importance of water is recognized editorially by the Glendale News-Press with the comment that "too much stress could not be placed upon the vital need of southern California for a greater water supply. The question is one of industrial life or death."

The Orland Register takes Col. Walter E. Garrison, state director of public works, to task for his statement concerning the distribution by the state of power generated by dams included in the state water program, to prevent its sale to the "power trust." The Register states:

"It looks very much as though the proposed state-wide water conservation program has a step-child of whom few of its advocates dreamed; one that is going to play hob with the entire program and set the state on its ears for another decade."

In an explanation of activities of water users in the Sacramento Valley, the Colusa Herald contends the valley is not "taking the position of the dog in the manger, but to say it intends to stand firmly for every single one of its rights," in opposing certain phases of the program.

GAY ADVENTURERS BY MILDRED BARBOUR

Before the evening was over, she was surprised to find that she was having a good time.

Illustrated by Hugh Hutton
(Copyright, 1932, Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York)

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabin-mate.

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks, Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scouting adventure agrees. Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her niece is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convincing Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CARLO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Harry denies this and the Count challenges him to a duel.

Sheila, in desperation, to prevent the duel, confesses that she is not Constance Kerr.

Thecount sends for Constance's aunt, stying that she will know her own niece. The old lady, on arriving, is not told what has happened, and she accepts Sheila without question.

Chapter 35—

"I'm Leaving."

Sheila's declaration that she was leaving for Paris on the first train, to find Constance Kerr, met with looks of utter incredulity from the Baronne and Bellefante.

Edmonds, however, surprised her by patting her hand and saying, in sympathetic tones:

"Tell the maid to pack your things at once. I'll go with you, if you think you'll need help."

He waved the Baronne and Bellefante aside and walked with Sheila to the foot of the stairs. When she had gone to her room, he rejoined the others.

"What now?" gasped the Baronne. "Did you hear what she said?"

"I know—I know," returned Harry impatiently.

"And you are going to Paris, too,

Edmonds," said the Count. "Then I will go along."

"Neither of us is going," said Harry. "Can't you understand that Constance is not herself. The thought has just dawned on me. What a fool I was, not to have seen this long ago."

The Baronne looked at him for a moment. "Ah," she said. "Now I understand." She turned to Bellefante and touched her forehead significantly. His eyes widened, but finally he too nodded.

"I see," he murmured. "Yes, it is quite clear now. Her conduct in Paris—so strange, so erratic. And that story about her illness, when she was not ill at all. Well, what shall we do?"

"We must take care of her," said Harry. "This may be merely a temporary thing, caused by anxiety, for surely it is plain that something has been preying on her mind. We must call in the best medical aid obtainable. If there is no improvement in a week or so, we'd better send for her parents."

The brisk sanner in which he took charge of the situation awed the Baronne and Bellefante. They assented to his plans without a word of protest. The Baronne dispatched Carlo to the telegraph-office, with an urgent summons to a noted specialist, a friend of hers, who was in Nice.

Meanwhile, Sheila was rushing through her packing. She was deeply worried as to the fate of Constance Kerr, but even that anxiety could not cloud her relief at the thought of getting away from what had become an intolerable situation.

When she asked the Baronne for the use of a motor-car, that she might go to the station to buy her ticket, Harry said that he would see to that.

"I'll attend to everything and get your ticket, too," he said. "And, if you think I can be of any assistance to you in Paris, please call upon me. I'll be there in a few days en route to London."

His ready acceptance of her decision was a surprise and so was the attitude of the Baronne and Bellefante.

"I wonder why they dragged poor Miss Belden down here to identify me, as it were, when they evidently had no intention of trying to keep me here?" she said to herself. "But who cares now? The thing is to get away."

Harry appeared an hour later to tell her that she could get an express the next morning. "I bought your ticket," he said. "I'll give it to you tomorrow."

Sheila spent the afternoon strolling about the garden. Now that the tension of her masquerade was over, she was almost able to enjoy herself. She had planned to dine in her room, but the Baronne sent her so cordial a note urging her to dine down-stairs that she accepted. It would be fun to be able to face her hostess without a qualm.

Harry Edmonds and the Count dropped in after dinner and urged Sheila and the Baronne to go for a drive. Sheila at first declined, but the Baronne urged her to go and she finally consented.

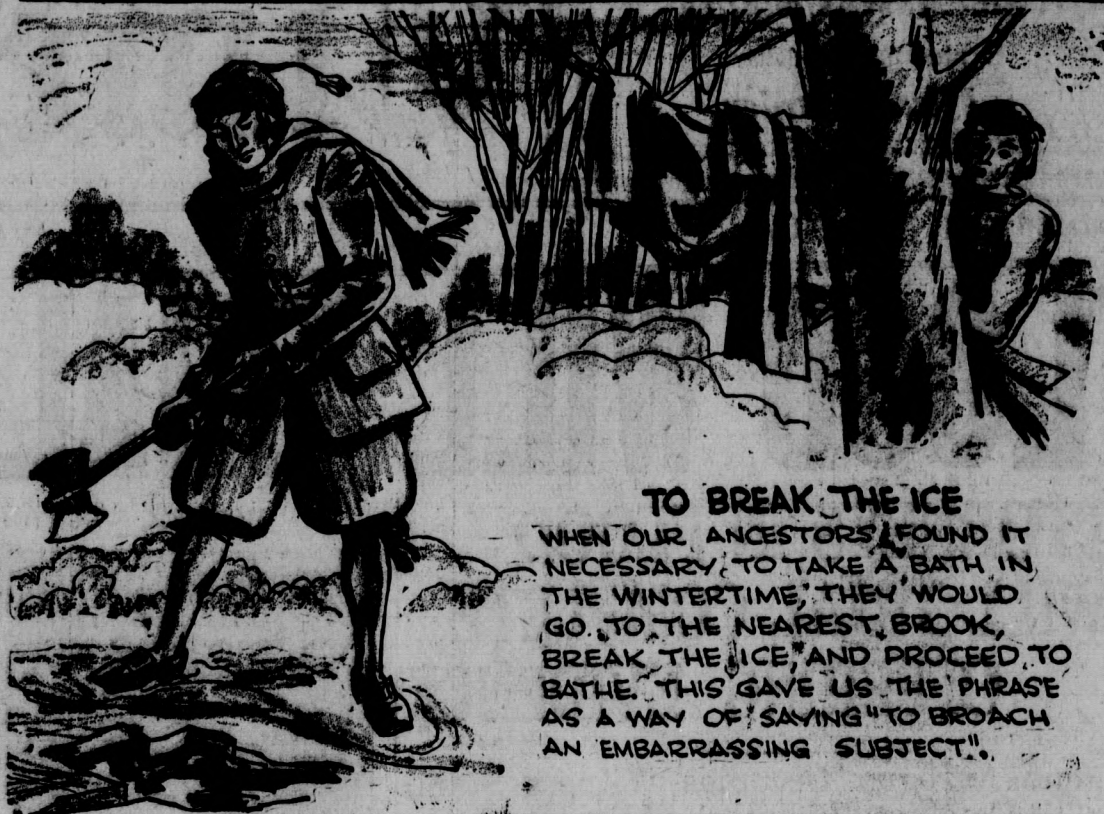

Before the evening was over, she was surprised to find that she was having a good time. The Count and Harry seemed to have patched up their differences, and the Baronne was very gracious and gay.

"I only hope I'm making as good an impression on them as they are on me," thought Sheila. "What pleasant companions I've had all along—and I never knew it."

When the good night had been said and Sheila had gone to her room, where Mathilde was waiting up for her, she danced a little jig for sheer joy at the prospect of freedom so near at hand. During the evening she had painstakingly explained to Harry that she would go to the Palace Hotel in Paris, to wait for Constance, and that she would let him know the moment Constance arrived. He told her that she was very kind and gave her the Mathilde, who was preparing to spend the night in the dressing room next to Sheila's bedroom, asked, while she brushed Sheila's hair: "At what hour does Mademoiselle wish to be called?"

"Early," said Sheila. "At eight o'clock. Don't forget."

Morning came, and Sheila slept tranquilly. Eight o'clock came, but Mathilde did not awaken her.

At noon she opened her eyes drowsily. Then she remembered. The sun was streaming in at the open windows. It must be late. Where was Mathilde?

She sat up in bed and threw back the covers. A woman in the garb of a nurse entered the room. As Sheila stared at her, the nurse pushed her gently back upon her pillows and drew the covers about her.

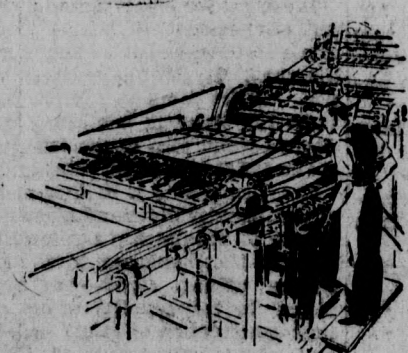

"Don't try to get up just yet," she said quietly. "The doctor wants you to get as much rest as possible. He will be here in a few moments."

Suddenly the reason back of the kindly, indulgent attitude of the Baronne and Harry and Bellefante on the previous night became clear to Sheila. With a gasp of dismay, she leaped out of bed before the nurse could restrain her and struggled into a negligee. She threw open the door to the dressing-room, calling for Mathilde. In the dressing-room sat another nurse. She rose and walked toward Sheila, who gave a sob of anger and despair as she realized what had happened.

BUILDERS OF CALIFORNIA

Suppose all Presses Stopped tonight

IMAGINE a world without the printed word—every field of human endeavor handicapped!

Printing, in this state, is both a great industry and a fine art. California printing companies frequently receive orders from many other states, and even from foreign countries.

More than 14,000 Californians are employed in printing and allied industries. Yearly expenditures for wages and materials exceed 65 million dollars.

Successful plant operation requires sound use of commercial credit, as well as dependable banking service.

And Bank of America takes pride in the fact that more than 350 printing and publishing companies are depositors in this Bank.

Most of these concerns pay employees by check—avoiding the risk of handling cash, and reducing insurance costs.

In depositing these checks at various Bank of America branches, hundreds of printing craftsmen make regular additions to their interest-bearing savings accounts. Steady financial progress is the happy result.

To business concerns in this community, it is to individual depositors, Bank of America offers the same advantages: alert, dependable service—and the security of ample, diversified resources.

9 of the 10 largest printing companies in California are depositors in Bank of America

Roy Cloud Talks To Kiwanis Club

Former School Superintendent Gives Information On School Laws

Speaking on the part which the California State Teachers Association plays in securing legislation favorable to its ends and of killing legislation which it does not favor, Roy W. Cloud, secretary of the organization, spoke before the members of the Redwood City Kiwanis club Wednesday.

Cloud was for many years county superintendent of schools of this county, and was for a short time city superintendent of schools of this city. He resigned the latter position to accept the post of executive secretary of the state teachers' organization.

In his talk Wednesday he showed the methods employed in securing the legislation which is desired by his organization, and gave examples of bills for whose passage the teachers' group was responsible, and of others which were not favored by the association, and which had been killed.

One of the bills for which the organization has been working, but which it has not yet been able to have passed, he said, was one to raise the teachers' retirement fund from $500 a year to $900 and also raise the amount paid into the retirement fund by the teachers from one dollar a month to four percent of their income.

The chairman of the meeting Wednesday was Clarence Argo, principal of the Sequoia Union high school. Several interesting musical numbers were given by Joseph Fitzgerald, a former member of the Kiwanis club in New York, who is now connected with the National Broadcasting Company in San Francisco, and who resides in Redwood City.

England Big Threat
For Davis Cup, 1932

The last Davis cup score of the 1931 season has been written in the books, and while the French won once more, results of this year's championship indicate a new deal in 1932.

The new deal, one believes, will result in one of two nations succeeding France as the champion next year. These nations are Great Britain and the United States.

Both Britain and the U. S. can boast of young stars already tried under the intense fire of Davis cup competition, and fully capable of further development. And France, the other currently dominant tennis nation, has a set of fading stars. To be sure, Henri Cochet, idol of French tennis, is not yet definitely through, but his playing days, like those of his contemporaries, are numbered, and it may be that he has by now played his last victorious Davis cup tennis.

Jean Borotra, the other important French player, has seen his best days. He lost both of his matches of the 1931 challenge round, and only the victories of Cochet in singles and with Jacques Brugnon in doubles enabled the Basque to be a member of the winning side.

British Stars

Make Good Showing

British tennis enthusiasts are divided in their admiration of two young men. Of course they admire both, but whether the greater is H. Wilfred "Bunny" Austin or Frederick J. Perry is something on which there is little agreement. That their abilities are of similar value is indicated in the fact that each beat Borotra and that each was defeated, but only after earnest struggles, by Cochet.

The British, too, are well fortified for play in Davis cup battles. Perry and George Patrick Hughes form a sterling doubles combination. This tandem was not used this year, for the British decided to give Perry a day of rest, substituting Charles Kingsley as partner for Hughes.

The United States hopes are certain to ride once again on the play of Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood in the singles, and on John Van Ryn and George Martin Lott in doubles. They are the young men who have been seasoned by actual competition.

Lots of things can happen between now and the day on which the 1932 Davis Cup Championship is determined, but it's fairly certain water that England and the United States will meet in the interzone final with the winner meeting—and beating—France in the challenge round.

Uncle Robbie Slated
To Quit Brooklyn Club

Despite a mid-season drive that stamped them as one of the leading contenders for the 1931 National League pennant, the Brooklyn Robins probably will perform under a new manager next season.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, one of the deans of major league pilots, has as much as admitted that he is through. Robins fans have been against him since the season started when Robinson failed to get his club off to a fast start after a successful training season. And for some years there have been differences between the portly pilot and the other officials of that club.

It was generally agreed when the present season started that if Robinson failed to bring Brooklyn a pennant, his contract, which expires this year would not be renewed. But now, even if the Baltimore Oriole star will be cast adrift.

When the Robins were floundering deep in the second division early in the season, the Brooklyn fans circulated a petition demanding Robinson's removal. The petition, however, were never presented to the team officials, for about that time the club began winning ball games and climbed into the first division.

Shines at Handling of Pitchers

New York and Brooklyn sports writers are agreed that outside of his fine handling of pitchers Robinson does not rate on a par with the other major league managers.

The writers are of the opinion, however, that Robinson should be retained as manager, for baseball has been his life and there is no denying that in the past he has taken misfit players and whipped them into a winning aggregation.

Guesses as to Robinson's successor are many and varied, but most of these who claim to be in the know are inclined to believe that it will be either Glenn Wright, present captain and shortstop, or Max Carey, outfielder, formerly of Pittsburgh and later of Brooklyn.

The sentiment of the fans, of course, is all for Wright. Glenn has been the sparkplug of the Brooklyn team for the past two years and many credit him with the success the team enjoyed after shaking off the early season slump.

Carey also is an idol with Brooklyn fans. He played but little with the Robins after leaving Pittsburgh, but even when he wore the Pirates' uniform he was popular in Flatbush.

LEANDER BOAT CLUB
CZAR OF ENGLISH ROWING

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(UP)—Action taken in rowing matters by Leander Boat Club may affect Britain's showing in the tenth Olympiad at Los Angeles next summer.

Leander is the controlling factor in British rowing. Britons believe that Leander is the rowing world what the Royal and Ancient Golf Club at St. Andrews, Scotland, is to golf and Wimbledon is to tennis. Many agree that the powers and sphere of dominance enjoyed by Leander in the rowing world exceed the prestige held by the Jockey Club in horse racing matters.

Leander's iron-clad rule in rowing exceeds the influence of the Meadowbrook County Club, or Forest Hills, in their respective sports in the United States.

Recognized as the premier rowing club in the world, Leander can challenge the right of any crew to represent Great Britain. If Leander wishes, a crew, or sculler, can be forced to meet Leander crews or scullers over the Henley Mile, 1 5-16 miles, or over the 4-1/2 mile varsity course which runs between Putney Bridge and Mortlake.

Previous Wins Helped

This prerogative is seldom used. In 1924 and 1928 Thames Rowing Club represented Britain in the Olympics by virtue of winning at Henley the previous year.

Officials have told the United Press that Leander will not challenge London's right to compete at Los Angeles in the eight-oared and four-oared races. Awarding Henley winners in the year previous to Olympic games the right to represent Britain is becoming a time-honored tradition and Leander appears to approve.

Leander is the outgrowth of 19th century rowing clubs. During the 19th century the "Star," "Arrow," "Shark," "Siren" and other clubs were established throughout Britain to advance the sport about which Virgil wrote in the fifth book of Aeneid. The "Star" and "Arrow" combined in 1818 to found the present day Leander Club.

The club is situated on the left bank of the Thames near Henley Bridge at Henley-on-Thames. The willows hide much of the modest club house and flowers hug its walls. Boat houses join Leander and continue down the Thames for fifty yards to the finish line of the famous natural course.

YOUTHFUL SOUTHERN NET STAR SURE TO SHINE

MEMPHIS, Aug. 7.—(UP)—Tennis followers of the south and mid-south are hopeful that many of the young stars now participating in tournaments here may develop into nationally known players and forecast that several may become Davis Cup material.

Lealing in the favorites is Clifford Sutter, dark-haired, hard hitting New Orleans player, who has already participated in a score or more of Eastern tournaments and is the holder of several titles in the south. Sutter is a national ranking player and is the most seasoned of the south's crop.

Close on Sutter's heels presses Bryant Grant, diminutive netman of South Carolina University, who reminds old-timers of "Little Bill" Johnston of California. The Atlantian suffered a physical breakdown shortly before the Southern Tennis tournament at Birmingham this year and was forced to withdraw. His title was won by Don Cram, another young collegiate star whose greatest fame has come as a member of the Cram doubles team. Don and Kendall, his older brother, won the Tri-States Tennis title here this year, smashing through their matches without much trouble. They are stars on Vanderbilt University's net team.

South Carolinian Favored

Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., is another favorite before southern galleries and his play this year has improved over last season. Another east coast player whose ranking in the south has advanced is Billy Reese, Atlanta, seeded number 4 in the southern. Reese "Lefty" Robert Bryan, Chattanooga; Melvin Tarpley, Tampa, Fla.; Judge L. Beaver, Gainesville, Ga., cotton states junior singles champion; Jack Mooney, Atlanta; Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla.; Billy Hughes, Mississippi champion and Memphis city champion, and James Halverstadt, Atlanta, have been in constant play this year.

Deserting baseball, the favorite game of his father, is John D. Martin, Jr., youthful college star and runner-up in the Memphis tournament. Martin's father is president of the Southern Association, veteran baseball league, but the younger Martin has showed no favoritism towards that sport and is seen daily in practice here.

Memphis fans also count heavily on Cecil Metz, who showed his fighting spirit when he played during the Tri-States tournament here at the request of his father, who was dying. The son withdrew from competition only after doctors had assured him his father would not recover and that he sank into a coma confident his son was "carrying on" as he had requested.

Many see as Memphis' greatest possibility in the junior field, Ramsey Fortis, 15-year-old high school star and holder of the Tri-States boys' and junior singles titles and the Southern Junior title. The young Memphis defeated Ernest Sutter, youngest of the New Orleans Sutters, for the Southern title.

JAIL POPULATION JUMPS

HARRISBURG, Pa., (UP)—Pennsylvania's jail population is increasing, according to reports by Dr. John L. Hanna, State Welfare Secretary. Hanna reported 8,221 prisoners in county jails on May 31, 1931, an increase of 2.21 over the number of prisoners for the same date in 1930. In June, 1930, 8,002 persons were admitted as new prisoners, while 9,974 were released.

The only other members are honorary ones who must row in a winning Henley crew. Often the stroke or bow or some outstanding member of a victorious Thames or London crew will be invited to join provided he is recommended and has the support of three Leander members.

Seal Dodges "Life Saver"

PORT TOWSEND, Wash., Aug. 7.—(UP)—Next time J. H. Worthington of Shebogan, Wis., attempts to rescue a drowning person, he will make some inquiries before jumping into the water.

He was walking along a pier when he heard a strangled cry coming from the water. It was nearly dark and he could see a head bobbing on the waves.

"Keep paddling, I'll save you," he cried as he kicked off his shoes and removed his coat. Worthington, it was said, had won a medal for saving a man in a lake near Sheboygan.

He dived off the pier and started swimming toward the bobbing head, which was uttering strange noises.

"I couldn't imagine what the fellow was about," Worthington said after he had been pulled out of the water. "He kept making strange noises and diving, and kept out of my reach. It was nearly dark and I had trouble keeping him in sight, but I kept plugging away, trying to reach him."

Worthington was exhausted when some men in a small boat pulled him aboard.

He had been trying to rescue a seal.

Lad Develops As Home Run Hitter

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 6 (UP)—A freckled-faced lad of 18, who laid down his school books last year and jumped into a uniform, has developed into one of the leading home run hitters of organized baseball.

The boy, Walter Carson, right fielder for the Globe, Ariz., Bears, hammered out 27 home runs during the first half of the 1931 season and started the second half in the same fashion—scoring three more homers in the first two series.

Batting .325, Carson rapidly became one of the leading "finds" for the league. In addition to his hitting ability, he is classed as one of the best fielders in the south-west.

A peculiar circumstance of Carson's career is that he never played baseball until his second year in high school when he barely made the Long Beach, Cal., team as a pitcher.

Misfit As Pitcher

"I was out of place as a pitcher and wasn't considered very good," Carson told the United Press. "After graduating from high school Carson decided playing ball was fun and tried out with the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League. He showed no particular promise as a hitter, but the Seals liked his fielding and sent him to Globe for seasoning under George H. "Mickey" Shaver, grizzled diamond veteran.

Carson started hitting instantly under Shaver's coaching and hasn't stopped. He has hit all kinds of pitching and, according to Shaver, is improving constantly.

"I don't try much for home runs," Carson said. "Mickey told me to hit the ball and avoid straining for long ones and that the homers would take care of themselves. I do that."

Rarely Relaxes

Although only 18, Carson is a big man. He weighs 190 pounds and is almost six feet tall. He bats left-handed and swings free, moving almost leisurely. His entire weight seems to be swinging forward as he bats the ball.

Hustling constantly, Carson rarely relaxes during a game. He runs from place to place, occasionally rumpling his red hair with his fingers, hardly ever slowing down to a walk. He talks a lot to fellow players and smiles all the time.

One of the big fielder's most engaging qualities is a realization that he has a lot to learn about hitting. He listens attentively to former major league stars who advise him, seemingly unaware of the fact that he is a better batter than many of the advisors ever were.

Carson admits he might not do so well against big league pitching, but is anxious to try it. Pitching in the Arizona-Texas league, however, is not bad. The twirlers are either promising youngsters seeking to go up, or veterans slipping back, and in this physically beneficial climate the old-timers perform exceptionally well.

Confidence is hardly the word to describe Carson's belief in himself. He is ambitious, but instead of merely being confident seems to have a positive consciousness that some day soon he'll be a great ball player, and in this a lot of experts agree.

CABLE RATES CUT

NEW ORLEANS, La., (UP)—The All-American Cable Company has announced a reduction on cables from Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Paraguay, Peru and Uruguay to New Orleans, thus putting the Crescent City on a parity with New York. The reduction represents a saving of 8 to 10 cents a word on full rate cablegrams and a proportionate reduction on all classes of deferred cablegram service.

Explosive Loads Must Carry Sign

(Editor's Note: This article is one of a series issued weekly by the legal department of the California State Automobile Association briefly reviewing new motor vehicle laws which become effective August 14.)

When motor vehicles carry loads of explosives or inflammable substance, signs to that effect must be plainly exhibited on the sides and rear, it is provided by a new law enacted by the last legislature, according to the legal department of the California State Automobile Association. This new section of the Vehicle Act provides substantially as follows:

It shall be unlawful to operate any motor vehicle, trailer, or semi-trailer transporting any explosive substance or poisonous gases as a cargo or part of cargo, unless there is displayed upon each side and the rear of the vehicle a sign containing the word, "Explosives" or "Inflammables."

Such signs must be at least fourteen inches wide by twelve inches high, with a red or white background and black lettering correctly designating the character of the cargo.

It is provided, however, that such signs need not be displayed by tank trucks or attached trailers which bear a prominently displayed trade name or other designating mark descriptive of the cargo.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Recant a substitute.

Cooked automatically with the Electric Range

It doesn't make any difference to the electric range what food you put in its oven. It is simple and easy to have perfect cooking every time and to have it automatically.

In cooking apple pie electrically, you set the oven temperature control to 250 degrees and forget about the pie until the baking time is up.

In cooking a roast with vegetables, you have still more freedom. You can place the food in the oven before lunch if you like. At four o'clock the electricity turns on, and the thermostat automatically keeps the oven heat just right. At six o'clock the electricity turns off. When you return home, simply take the food from the oven—hot—and deliciously done.

Electric cooking is clean. As for speed, the oven heats up to 400 degrees in 9 to 11 minutes. New platform cooking elements are faster—as fast as you'd want them. And the electric range is economical—the cost of electricity averages 10 a meal per person.

A few dollars down and a few dollars a month places an electric range in your kitchen. Come into our office and see the electric range.

Peach Growers In Agreement To Cut Acreage

12,000 Acres of Trees To Be Removed According to Agreement

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6 (UP) —
An armistice in California's peach war has been signed, sealed and delivered.

Facing a loss of $4,000,000 on this year's crop the peach growers of the state have agreed to one of the strangest experiments in agricultural history.

It involves the uprooting of 12-000 acres of peach orchards in order to hold down the size of this year's crop, and therefore assure a reasonable return to the grower.

The agreement affects peach lands all over the state, but particularly in Northern California, where one-third of all the nation's peach trees are grown.

There are 8,000 peach trees in San Mateo county now bearing fruit, according to a recent survey made by the state department of agriculture.

In previous years of overproduction the peach growers have been virtually forced into bankruptcy because of the low prices offered by the big packers who buy their crop.
This year, however, the federal farm board intervened.

F. E. Laney, one of the largest packers, recommended an agreement between warring canners and growers whereby the pack this year would be limited to 9,000,000 cans or just about the amount the market will absorb.

The purchase price of No. 1 peaches is to be $20 a ton. Drops will be bought at a minimum of $5 a ton, and as high as $6 or $7. A bonus of $2.50 a ton will be paid to those who remove trees. The 12,000 acres to be uprooted will remove the permanent surplus of about 80,000 tons of peaches a year.

"The public should know that we are not pulling up productive orchards, but only those trees which should be uprooted because they are unprofitable, as they are old trees and on unfit land," Laney said.

"These marginal lands are the poor orchards which hover just above the profit line in good years and fall below it in poor years. In this way we are removing the surplus without destroying any valuable trees."

SURVIVES 35,000 VOLTS

ANAMOSA, Iowa, (UP) — Leo Oswald, 28, experienced a charge of 35,000 volts of electricity through his body, and is alive to tell of it.

he was removing a concrete support for a transformer, and struck a high tension wire with his neck.
He was knocked to the ground, his neck and hip seared, but otherwise uninjured.

FAITHFUL HORSE RETIRED

UTICA, Mo., (UP) — "Old Jo," 25-year-old horse, who, with his master, William Wolfscaler, has met the train here daily for 20 years, is retired. "Jo," it was estimated, had hauled several thousand wagon loads of coal to the kilns where he was employed.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

Moving pictures of the "epidemic" type are abhorrent to John Cromwell, director.

Cromwell explains the unusual use of the word by describing an "epidemic" picture as one of a cycle, cut from the same dramatic material.

"The mere fact that a gangster story is a popular success should be no basis for making another like it," Cromwell declared. "Another gangster story can be made, however—one of a vastly different type—for there are hundreds of other stories of this section of life."

Cromwell, strange as it may seem, turned out some of the best gangster pictures of 1930, and the success of his productions started other companies on the "epidemic."

Among Cromwell's film successes were "Street of Chance," the story of a gambler; "For the Defense," relating to a lawyer of an unsuspected class; "The Mighty," the story of a crook who became a war hero and used his heroism for illegotten gain; "Tom Sawyer," and "Unfaithful," the latter a new treatment of the inevitable triangle story.

Now he is at work on "The Vice Squad," a picture dealing with a "stool pigeon" and revolutionary in that it makes a hero of the "preacher."

Peggy Shannon, titian-haired, keeps a hairdresser awfully busy these hot days. She has twelve water waves and 100 hair adjustments each week, matching her disarrayed hair for various scenes.

Hollywood is destructive toward illusions. Particularly in and around the picture industry. What a jolt when you discover your favorite blonde show girl has a set of store teeth.

The other day, I watched a famous cowboy actor chasing a poor Brahma calf all over the landscape in an effort to rope the critter for publicity photos. He couldn't have dropped bossy with an elephant gun! Finally, both were worn out and gave up the game.

Petty Crime Increases in Los Angeles

Officials Minimize Advance;
Blamed It on Depression

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (UP) — Although an increase in crime of 13 per cent—which is 10 per cent above normal—has been reported here by the police department, authorities are inclined to minimize the advance.

The fact that officials are not worried over the increase is because they place the blame upon economic conditions. An increase in number of petty crimes rather than in felonies is evident.

Twelve months of crime cost the citizens approximately $3,000,000, according to Mrs. Rhoda Cross, police statistician, in addition to the money they spend in taxes toward the upkeep of a force of efficient clerks.

The economic depression has brought a good many dubious characters here, police said, with the idea of obtaining a living by petty crimes. Thus the number of arrests for vagrancy and begging show an increase of 27 per cent for the former and 77 per cent for the latter.

No reason was given for the decrease in major crimes. Murders numbered 1 against 70 for the previous year, 374 felonious assaults against 380, and drunken driver arrests, 835 against 1083.

Coincident with the announcement of the fiscal year's crime report, Chief of Police Roy E. Steckel declared the force was still virtually the same size it was six years ago, in spite of the city's growth to 1-375,000 and the increase in crime.

Active Policemen
Instead of keeping a large force of officers stationed in various offices acting as clerks, Steckel has only a few policemen stationed at headquarters, or at substations. Of the 2379 policemen, 885 are on patrol of 443 square miles.

That Los Angeles—known to many as closed city—has a vice squad three to four times as large as those in other cities of its size is caused by the various religious and reform groups that are powerful politically in this section of California.

Where Chicago, with 2,000,000 more population than Los Angeles, has a vice squad of 37, or Detroit

Slump Shown In Marriages

San Mateo County Gains as Rest of States Loses
In Licenses

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 7 (UP) —
Well, maybe two can't live as cheaply as one.

Or perhaps it's the weather—or Dan Cupid is getting just plain tired. Anyway California marriages showed a distinct drop in popularity during the first six months of the year.

According to figures announced by Dr. Giles S. Porter, state director of public health, only 23,445 couples said their "I do's" for the six months ending June 30. In the same period last year, there were 24,000 marriages.

In San Mateo county, there were 492 nuptial vows exchanged during the first six months of this year, as compared to 457 in the corresponding period of 1930.

Alpine and Sierra counties must be positively unromantic. Alpine continued a record with no marriages as yet this year. The same is true of Sierra which only had one during the first six months of 1931.

However, there were plenty of orange blossoms in Orange county.
In the first half of 1931, the county registered 1,663 marriages. And this year, in the face of a general decline, the figure jumped to 1,802 to give Orange the third highest total in the state, passing Alameda county.

And then there's Mono county with a 500 per cent increase. One marriage in 1930—five already this year.

And to further substantiate a contention that things could be worse —or better—depending on the viewpoint, the statistics show that June hasn't lost its appeal as the month of brides.

In June, 1931, there were 5,883 marriages, while this figure rose to 5,915 last June—far higher than any other month of the year for the state.

Los Angeles county led the state with 8,685 marriages, and San Francisco was second with 2,768.

St. Louis Claims New Air Title

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6 (UP) — St.
Louis, known as the "cross roads of the nation" because of its central location, now is known as the "cross roads of the air" after years of struggle to establish itself as a gigantic airmail center.

The first airmail was flown here on October 4, 1911. The flight was in the nature of a stunt, mail being carried from Kinloch Park to Fairgrounds Park by Walter Brookings—but it was the first time mail had ever been flown. So recent establishing of two new mail routes with St. Louis as a pivot point has an added significance.

These two new routes, one southward to Memphis and New Orleans, the other direct route east to New York, actually have increased the service here to the point where the Chamber of Commerce has a sound basis for its "cross roads of the air" slogan.

St. Louis previously had a direct airmail line to Chicago, and direct air mail service to the southwest.
In addition a line to Evansville,

Ind., links with the Nashville-Atlanta route, while mail for the Pacific Coast is shunted through here via Kansas City.

With these established lines, and the two new ones, St. Louis becomes a great airmail junction, in which mail is shunted to all parts of the nation.

MENLO PARK

Members of the Hebrew faith in the Atherton-Menlo Park-Palo Alto district and the Congregation Beth Jacob are active these days in raising $15,000 for the construction of the synagogue and community center building on Stanford avenue in the southern section of Menlo Park. The site faces the San Francisco creek and is but a short distance from the state highway. Architect's plans have been drawn and construction will start as soon as the necessary funds are obtained. Headquarters are at the home of Irving Levin, 143 Seale avenue, Palo Alto. Joseph Breit is in charge of the work.

Mrs. James L. Flood returned home from the east last Sunday after a lengthy stay in New York. Mrs. Flood was glad to get back to Menlo Park, where she has spent many happy years and to her wide circle of friends, who were delighted to greet her. Mrs. Flood loves this community and its people. To her no place is half so fair as Menlo Park. Mrs. Flood is highly esteemed and loved by everyone in the locality. Her return to the old home has been a source of joy to all.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Furnival and their pretty daughter, Nancy Furnival, returned home on Monday from Corvallis, Oregon, where they went to attend the wedding of Miss Thomas, a former resident of Menlo Park. She married a Los Banos businessman. The pretty bride taught school at that place for the past two years.

The city council at a recent meeting discussed the matter of paying the health officer, Dr. Gerlough, a salary. The doctor renders good service to the city and ought to be paid.

The horse show at the circus club from August 8 to 15 will draw a big attendance. Carloads of pure bred animals are arriving daily from all parts of the country for the big show. The display is to be one of the finest ever held in the state.

J. E. Strong, a resident of Menlo Park since 1917, passed away at the Community hospital last Monday morning from an heart attack. He had been at the institution since July 22. Mr. Strong was a native of St. Paul, Minnesota, and was aged 57. The deceased came to Menlo Park, when Camp Fremont was established to engage in tailoring at the camp. He came from Monterey with his family and was connected with the presidio there. For some years he followed the army as a tailor. After the conclusion of the war, Mr. Strong located here, doing a large tailoring business. Recently he opened a shop at Burlingame, continuing to reside at his new home at Atherton. Mr. Strong was an expert mechanic and was loved by all.

He is survived by his wife, Maria C. Strong, a daughter, Mrs. William Feeley and two grand children. The funeral took place on Wednesday from the Tinney Funeral Home, Palo Alto. Interment was at Cypress Lawn cemetery. The family has the sympathy of the community in its bereavement.

The city council met in special session Tuesday evening. All members were present except Anderson. A delegation of residents from Live Oak avenue were present to discuss the matter of installing electroliners on that avenue. Tupper and Blake favored the improvement, while Captain Alexander thought the lights were too expensive. However, the majority appeared to favor the proposition. The electroliners will cost about $55 for a fifty-foot lot. The council continued the matter until the next meeting, August 11.

Resolutions 31-7, 31-8 and 31-9 were adopted authorizing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for improvements to be done on Live Oak avenue, Curtis and Doyle streets from Santa Cruz avenue to Menlo avenue and Hermosa Way.

J. C. Brown, the grocer, applied for a permit to make an addition to his residence on Santa Cruz avenue to be used as a store. After some discussion the application was referred to the planning commission.

Resolution 81 was amended so that Officer Huettner's salary will hereafter be drawn from the general fund, instead of the road fund. The amendment is effective July 1st. The council adjourned to August 11, the regular meeting.

Edward O'Keefe, Joseph Morey, B. Braccuso, Kip Morey and P. Roach returned from a hunting trip in Pine Valley, Monterey, on Tuesday. The party brought home two deer, weight 150 pounds each. All week their friends have been enjoying venison steaks and pot roasts.

By the terms of the county government bill passed by the last legislature two new deputies have been allotted to the office of E. B. Hinman, county clerk. It is said on excellent authority that Miss Mary Alice Sullivan of Menlo Park will be appointed to one of the positions by Mr. Hinman. Miss Sullivan is a graduate of Notre Dame Convent at Belmont and a secretarial school in San Francisco. Miss Sullivan is a charming and pretty young woman and is efficient and capable and will make a good record in the office.

Joseph J. McShane, grand trustee of the Native Sons, and who maintains a summer residence at Atherton, is a candidate for municipal judge in San Francisco. He is an able lawyer and a genial man possessing a pleasing personality. His friends in this county hope he will clear the hurdles and land on the bench.

The new sidewalk just constructed on Laurel avenue along side of the property of Councilman E. J. Crane has been paid for by himself and does not come under the improvement resolution adopted for that district. No sidewalks were provided by the resolution on the west side of Laurel from Oak Grove avenue to Ravenswood avenue and Mr. Crane desires to have them along his home, made arrangements with the contractor to have the work done.

WOODSIDE

The tall steel towers recently erected on the Stanley Harris place support the broadcasting for a short wave radio station. This station was built largely to assure communication between the Harris yacht and the home. Recently the details of an automobile accident in which a member of the family was injured near the home here, were given to the members of the family aboard the yacht in Alaskan waters, within half an hour after the accident.

Fire Chief James F. Driscoll left on Wednesday to represent the Woodside Fire Department at the state convention at Santa Rosa. The month of July established the record for the fire department in the number of fires attended. There were twenty calls during the month, mostly to brush and grass fires, which gave the boys plenty of exercise but which caused comparatively slight damages.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Mighall and Mr. and Mrs. Henry McArthur returned on Tuesday after a two weeks' fishing trip to Lake Kennedy in the High Sierras.

The fact that several family birthday anniversaries came in the month of August, was the excuse for the large party given by Joseph H. Hallett of Woodside, on Saturday last. The festivities began with a picnic to Emerald Lake, followed by a dinner at the Hallett place, and dancing in the evening. Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. L. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Badie, Mr. and Mrs. H. Badie, Mr. and Mrs. V. Doppee, Mr. and Mrs. G. King, Mr. and Mrs. J. DeBenedetti, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hallett, Mrs. Laura Genocchio, Mrs. Joseph Hallett, Mrs. Drivon, Mrs. J. DeBenedetti, Miss Jean Duncan, Miss Emily DeBenedetti, Miss Leora DeBenedetti, Miss Ada Drivon, Miss Shirley Doppee, Miss Marjorie King, Miss Effie Lee Narramore, Miss Ethel Hallett, Miss Eleanor Hallett, Miss Helen Hallett, Edward Hansen, Will DeBenedetti, Clyde Genocchio, Alvin Hallett, Walter Badie and James DeBenedetti.

Mrs. Mervyn McArthur entertained at luncheon at her log cabin here on Wednesday, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Henry Dalve. Those present were Mrs. Henry Dalve, Mrs. Sidney Dalve, Mrs. James Warren, Mrs. F. H. Mighall, Mrs. Henry McArthur, Mrs. Henry Jenkins, Miss Elizabeth Jenkins, Mrs. Buchell, Mrs. J. D. Gish, Miss Evelyn McArthur.

The baseball team of the Woodside Fire Department will appear on Sunday for the first time in their new uniforms. They will play a San Francisco team in their fourteenth game of the season. If the new uniforms add as much to their skill as to their appearance they should have no trouble in winning every game from now on.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED
HERE ASKS $25,000
A damage suit for $25,000 has been filed against S. W. Reinhard by Ad. die Austin of San Francisco, for an automobile accident said to have occurred on the Bayshore highway at Broadway, Burlingame on November 28.

As a result of this accident the plaintiff claims to have suffered a broken right arm and three broken ribs. The complaint alleges that a truck belonging to the defendant ran into another truck in which the plaintiff was a passenger.

Dentist Arrested
R. J. Ingall, 30, a dentist, was arrested by Officer Dyer of the Menlo Park police department Tuesday night on a charge of driving while drunk. He was booked at the jail here on the drunk charge.

50 YEARS AGO

Times and Gazette August 6, 1881
Chamberlain & Wilcox have just built an addition to the rear of their store to be used as a counting house. It makes a convenient, cheerful and cozy office.

On Friday evening of last week John McEvoy came in from Hanson's mill with a load of 10,704 feet of lumber. This was the boss load, said to be the biggest load ever hauled over the mountains. John had eight horses in his team.

Purdy Pharis' fine large barn at Woodside was burned Thursday afternoon, together with about ten tons of hay a large hay wagon and some other effects. No other details have been received. It is supposed that the property was insured.

Chris Hynding's old building is on the move down Phelps street, and the workmen are at work on the old site adjoining the engine house on Main street preparing for the new hotel. Tannahill has the contract for the erection of the new building, which is to be completed in December. It will cover the front of the lot, will be two stories high, and will have quite an ornamental front. It will be quite an improvement to that part of the town.

Of late the lamps at the M. E. church have not shown with their accustomed brilliancy, and seemed to require a thorough cleaning. Mrs. J. W. Souther had them taken to her home and they were made to shine like new suns. The change is greatly for the better. Parties from the valley have been over buying calves. Grizzlies are occasionally seen on the hills near here. Delightful weather. Butter is getting scarce and high.

30 YEARS AGO

August 3, 1901
L. J. Frank has gone to Bartlett Springs for two weeks.
Mr. and Mrs. Easterday of Niles were visitors at the Littlejohn's Monday.

Mrs. James Crowe has gone to La Honda to spend a few days with her friend, Mrs. Steinberg.
Frank McNulty, who has been employed at the Tacoma Mill Company's lumber yards, has resigned his position to drive a team for Miller & Co., the South San Francisco hay merchants.

A four horse team belonging to James Curran was frightened by the second regiment band playing in front of the Alhambra Thursday evening, and ran up Main street. On turning the corner at Stambaugh, the wagon collided with a telegraph post. The driver was thrown out and severely bruised. One of the horses was also injured.

John T. Ralston is over from San Gregorio on a visit with his friends Lon Cook and P. P. Chamberlain.

Victor Boos was here this week from Sonoma. He says that Chris Hartsough is driving a fourteen mule team there and is as happy as when he held the office of assessor here.

W. C. Crooks, who taught school at Searsville thirty years ago, was here Sunday visiting friends. Dan Mullen of this city was one of his pupils. Of the many boys and girls he taught in those days but few are left in the county to recall reminiscences of Searsville school. Mr. Crooks will be here again next week to call on acquaintances.

32 POTATOES IN ONE HILL
FORT MADISON, Ia., (UP)—Prosperity is on the way back, solemnly avers Mrs. J. T. Salyars. She found 32 potatoes, all above average size, in one potato hill in her patch. In another hill there were 22 potatoes.

PISTOL CAPS INJURE BOY
LYONS, Kans., (UP)—Caps for a toy pistol, in the pocket of Bobby Henderson, six, were ignited when the boy was wrestling with a playmate. He received painful burns.

Woodland Concert Season To Close Sunday, Aug. 9

The open air concert next Sunday afternoon in the Woodland Theatre at Hillsborough will be the concluding one of the season which has been the most popular and best attended of all previous series.

Alexander Smaller, associate conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra who directed the summer orchestra for last Sunday's program will again conduct this afternoon, and if the enthusiastic reception accorded him both during and at the conclusion of the concert be a criterion of his popularity, a capacity audience will greet him next Sunday at his second and final appearance.

The numbers included in the program for the concluding concert offer an interesting variety both as to composers and the works to be performed. The first half of the concert will be devoted to a symphonic work which has been played only once before at these summer concerts, although it is very popular in the repertoire of every symphony orchestra, and is of particular interest to Americans because of the use of many familiar Negro and Indian melodies. Dvorak's Fifth Symphony, more familiarly known as "The New World" symphony was written in 1893, while the composer was living in New York as Director of the National Conservatory. This work is frequently characterized as a "letter written in music to the folks at home" described and giving the composer's impressions of the new country which he was visiting. He was much interested in the native folk music which he found here and he incorporated the spirit of many of these melodies in the symphony.

The final number of the afternoon's program also makes extended use of national airs and tunes. This is the Symphonic Poem, "Finlandia" by the Finnish composer, "Sibelius," who attempted to record in musical expression the impressions of an exile to his native land after a long absence. This subject gives opportunity for the natural introductions of many tunes although the composer strenuously denied he had used any known songs, but rather inventing his own themes. At any rate they bear a striking resemblance and have the spirit of the melodies of his native land.

The Good Friday Spell Music from Wagner's "Parsifal" and Weingartner's Orchestral arrangement of Weber's "Invitation to the Dance" complete the program.

BARBECUE PICNIC PLANNED BY VETS
A barbecue and picnic is being planned for Sunday by the Allan H. Nichols Post, No. 9, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to be held on the Gilman Park on Portola road, about a mile south of the Stanford golf links. The day will be devoted to amusement for young and old alike. The barbecue and dinner will be served from noon until 1:30, and will be followed by dancing and games and contests for which prizes will be awarded. A feature of the day will be the palama parade for ladies. The lady adjudged the most attractive will receive a beautiful award. Admission will be $100 for adults. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

Nevadans To Hold Reunion Aug. 23rd

Sunday, August 23 and Moosewood Park, Oakland, have been set as the time and place for the Nevada annual reunion this year, according to invitations sent out this week to all former residents of the Sagebrush State.

It has been the custom for many years for the former residents of Nevada living in the bay district of California to hold a reunion in Oakland once a year. Often former residents of the Battleborn State come from the far corners of California on this occasion to meet their friends of former days. Present-day residents of Nevada, too, are always well represented on the occasion of these reunions.

Each year finds the attendance of this annual event larger and this year extensive plans have been made for this annual reunion of former Nevadans.

Skeleton Found Near Coasts

Bones Identified as Those of Edward Seitz, Redwood
City Man

The skeleton of a man found Wednesday night about 100 yards off the Gazos road, south of Pescadero was identified as that of Edward Seitz, who disappeared from his home in Redwood City some two years ago, and for whom a search had been carried on by Sheriff James J. McGrath and posse.

Besides the skeleton, which was discovered by A. H. Robinson, road worker while in search of timber, lay a rusted shotgun and the man's gold watch. Identification was made by Seitz's brother.

Seitz disappeared after visiting his brother's home in Los Gatos in 1929, where he left a note saying he was going off to commit suicide. Wide search was instituted at the time but no trace of the man could be found. The searching party, however, did find his car abandoned on the coast side.

Sheriff James J. McGrath said yesterday that Seitz apparently had gone to the summer home of his brother in the Gazos creek section and made good the threat in his note about suicide. The sheriff added that there would be no investigation as everything indicated self destruction.

The victim was 37 years of age and unmarried. His brother identified the body at the morgue of Deputy Coroner Manuel Dutra in Halfmoon Bay.

Flood Will Case

her as Constance May Flood.

Fritz also explained the initials "J. L. F." upon Constance May's trunk when she was sent to the convent at Ramona. The initials were put there, he said, for the trip to Japan in 1898, after Mrs. Rose Flood's death. Flood, the child Constance May, Maud Fritz and himself, made the trip, Fritz asserted.

All the trunks were labeled with Flood's initials, he testified.

"Even the trunk you had?" Attorney Roche asked him.

"Oh yes, all of them. They were marked 'J. L. F.' to simplify matters," came the answer.

Fritz drew an intimate word picture of the Flood household prior to and just after the death of his sister, Mrs. Rose Flood. The baby Constance was loved and cherished by all, even himself, he said.

Fritz testified that it was freely stated in the Flood home in the days when Constance was a little girl with Rose Flood, that her father was a property man and her mother an actress in Oakland, but that their names were Mr. and Mrs. Stearn.

Mrs. Eudore Forde Willette, recanting witness in the case has already testified that she told Mrs. Rose Flood that James Cannon was the father of her child, the man she now names in her recantation.

Fritz denied that he had ever told anyone that Maud was jealous of Constance and that she had put her away in a convent and would see that she never got out, that Maud resented the beauty of the child and Mr. Flood's affection for the child.

Taaffe shot this question at Fritz who looked across at Mrs. Flood, and then said, "No."

Although Mrs. Maud Flood had testified on Tuesday afternoon that she had never referred to Constance as "my niece," Taaffe introduced three witnesses the next day who testified that at different occasions Mrs. Flood had referred to the girl as her niece.

The three witnesses for Mrs. Gavin who contradicted testimony given by Mrs. Flood were Mrs. Mary Lee Manning, Hollywood scenario writer; Mrs. Mina Anderson, proprietor of a Sacramento street rooming store, and Mrs. Winifred Hyland, 4077 Seventeenth street, San Francisco.

Each of these witnesses testified to knowing Mrs. Flood, then Maud Fritz, in 1897 and 1899.

All three women recalled having heard Mrs. Flood refer to Constance as her niece. Mrs. Manning stated that she had met Mrs. Flood and the girl in San Francisco on one occasion, and the former had said, "This is my niece. We are going to the Midland hotel to have lunch with her father."

Mrs. Anderson told the court of having been employed in 1897 as a saleswoman in a San Francisco department store at which Mrs. Flood was accustomed to trade, and testified that she referred to her niece when speaking of the child.

The other witness, Mrs. Hyland, told of having met Mrs. Flood, then Miss Fritz at the home of a mutual friend, and said that Miss Fritz told her, "My sister wanted me to take my niece for a drive, and asked me to take Mrs. Paxton with us." Mrs. Paxton was another friend.

Frederick Pryce Evans, psychiatrist or spirit writer consulted by Mrs. Willette just prior to her now famous recantation, was placed upon the stand and produced two messages to Mrs. Willette purporting to come from James Flood and his first wife, Rose Flood. The messages read:

"My dear Doris—I will impress Maud, also McEnerney and others to arrive at some reasonable agreement so that a settlement can be made for you and Constance May that will be agreeable to all concerned. I feel sure that the matter can be arranged very soon.—Kindly greetings from your well wisher.

JAMES L. FLOOD.

"My dear—I will help you—Ood Jim and I will try and bring about a speedy settlement for you and Constance May—Don't worry dear—Stay with A. L. O'Grady. Lovingly, ROSE FRITZ FLOOD."

Dr. F. W. Vowinkel, physician who attended Mrs. Rose Flood at the time of her last illness, was placed on the stand. Dr. Vowinkel's testimony definitely settled all possibility of Mrs. Flood having been the mother of the child. Dr. Vowinkel testified that it would have been impossible for Mrs. Flood to have given birth to a child.

The greater part of the court session Wednesday was taken up with the examination of Eugene Auregy, attorney.

It was Auregy who worked up Mrs. Gavin's case soon after Flood's will was filed for probate in the court here. Auregy's testimony centered chiefly around the meeting with Mrs. Willette in the office of A. Q. Lombard in San Francisco. This meeting was arranged, according to Auregy, by George K. Ford, attorney for Mrs. Gavin, and his law partner, Elliot Johnson.

Asked by Roche what conversation took place at that meeting Auregy answered:

"Mr. Elliott Johnson commenced to interrogate Mrs. Willette. He was asking her certain definite questions to which she was not relying concisely and rambled all over, telling Mr. Johnson about her voice and about her career as an actress."

Mr. Johnson interrupted her several times, impressing upon her that he was not interested in her career; that he had certain definite questions which he wished to ask her, and requested that she answer those questions—in a very brusque manner. Mrs. Willette thereupon took exception to Mr. Johnson's method of questioning her, and when it was apparent that she had taken umbrage, Mr. Johnson left the room.

So, thereupon, Mrs. George K. Ford spoke to Mrs. Willette and he said, Mrs. Willette, I want to apologize for Mr. Johnson's brusque manner. But what we, of course, definitely want to know is, who is the father—who is the mother of Mrs. Gavin?"

Mrs. Willette is said to have answered that she was the mother and that "Jim" Flood was the father.

Auregy then told of having shown Mrs. Willette an affidavit purporting to have been signed by her, and which stated that Constance May was the daughter of herself and an Edward Stearn, to whom she was married in New York in 1892. Mrs. Willette is said to have exclaimed: "It's a pack of lies. I was never in New York until 1898."

Auregy then testified that he asked Mrs. Willette if she had ever been married to a man by the name of Stearn, and she replied that she never had and had never known a man by the name of Edward Stearn.

Mrs. Willette also denied, according to Auregy, ever having signed the paper which he referred to. Auregy was examined in regard to the story told him by Mrs. Willette in regard to her having met Flood several times at the Maison Riche and of having gone with him to the Russ House, and also of the story of spiritual marriage performed by Father Maraschi.

The testimony given under cross examination by Roche on Wednesday corresponded detail for detail with that given by Mrs. Willette in her first deposition.

Auregy's testimony also brought out the first mention of James Cannon, who Mrs. Willette now claims was the father of her child. Auregy in recalling his conference with Mrs. Willette said:

"I informed her substantially that I had not been able to gather any corroborating information respecting her place of residence there, and at the time asked her if she knew anyone in San Francisco, or any place, who could furnish information regarding her movements. She thought for a long time, and could not think of a name."

"I said, 'Have you any girl friends? Did you ever know a woman in San Francisco, or did you know any woman in Los Angeles?'"

"Well," she said, "except for the people who were connected with the McKee Rankin theatrical troupe I do not recall any one whom I knew."

"Do you recall any women friends whom you had in San Francisco in the year 1892?" And she could not recall any of the names of any women whom she knew.

"Do you know any one who can in any measure substantiate any of your contentions that you ever knew Mr. Flood?"

"I then called her attention to certain information, which she had given me, regarding a dinner that she had at the Maison Riche, and being present: Mrs. James L. Flood, Mr. Nat Messer and another lady and herself. She told me that she could not recall the name of that lady."

"I said: 'You know any men, any one who could furnish any information?' She thereupon turned to her mother and she said, substantially

Shoemaker Loses His Corn Crop

Joe Roza, who conducts a boot and shoe hospital at the corner of Broadway and Arguello street, is disconsolate over the loss of his entire corn crop, which was lifted by some miscreant, one night this week.

It should be explained that Roza was once a farmer and although he has abandoned the soil as a means of livelihood, he still flirts with mother nature in an attempt to woo from the ground the choicest vegetables that grow.

His efforts are of the intensive variety, and he plants so that each month brings forth something that is worth while. The early spring gives him the vegetables of that period and so on until the golden harvest of the waning summer, then then corn is due. Later the grapes in purple clusters burden the vines. All through the year there are blossoms of the choicest flowers which show that Joe is a floriculturist as well as a farmer.

For days Roza has been gazing at his corn crop with pleasant anticipations of a big feed and he was about ready to harvest it—when behold—it had vanished like that of Kansas during the historic grasshopper invasion. Roza is disconsolate at his loss and refuses to be comforted.

Roza's farm is close to the curb at his place of business and consists of a tract two feet by four in the sidewalk. It is one of California's model farms.

"I do not recall the exact words, but,"

"Ma, who was that man that worked in the Grove street theater? The mother thought for a while and replied, 'Cannon.'"

"So I asked Mrs. Willette what Cannon's first name was, what his 'She said, 'It was James Cannon, who was the master of properties.' I then asked her what information he could furnish."

"She said, 'Well, I saw Mr. Cannon at the race track one day when I was with Mr. Flood.' I asked her if she knew where Mr. Cannon was. She said she did not."

State Starts War On Forest Fires

A drastic campaign against man-made fires has been inaugurated by the California division of forestry. "The public is becoming well educated in fire prevention and the subject is being kept daily before the people of every community," State Forester M. B. Pratt stated today.

"But the time has come when it is vital to take immediate action against the vicious or careless individual in his own community."

As a step in this direction Pratt called attention to the $100 reward offered by the state fire committee for information leading to the arrest of any person willfully setting a field or forest fire. In addition arrangements are being completed to provide a special prosecutor to see that violators receive the full force of the law.

Thirty violations already have been reported this season by state rangers and supervisors, according to a tabulation just completed by the state division of forestry.

Of 12 persons convicted of burning brush without a permit, all but one received fines ranging from $2.50
